

Police Candidate Interpretive Report

David M. Corey, PhD, & Yossef S. Ben-Porath, PhD

Webinar/Workshop Session Evaluation

Title: Case Demonstrations Using the MMPI-2-RF Police Candidate Interpretive Report

Presenter: David M. Corey, Ph.D., ABPP

Webinar/Workshop Objectives:

1. Apply a model (Spilberg & Corey, 2017) for integrating data from multiple data sources, including information from written tests, personal history, and clinical interview when conducting pre-employment evaluations of police officer candidates.
2. Use PCIR item-level information to assess for the impact of intentional deception on underreporting.
3. Apply comparison group findings and job-relevant correlates from the PCIR to make evidence-based suitability determinations and prepare written reports

Attendee Information

Name:			Date of Attendance (select one):	Oct. 3, 2017 Nov. 17, 2017
Credential (select one):	Psychologist	Non-Psychologist / Other

Evaluation

Please rate the following statements as they pertain to the webinar/workshop that you attended.

	Strongly Disagree 1	Disagree 2	Neither Agree or Disagree 3	Agree 4	Strongly Agree 5
Objectives & Instruction: Webinar objectives were clearly stated and met.
Comments
Instructor: Presenter knew the subject matter and was well prepared.
Comments
Professional: Instruction was appropriate for post/doctoral level training.
Comments
Venue/Setting: Overall, the teaching methods were effective.
Comments
Learning: The content of this CE program was useful for my practice or other professional development.
I learned a great deal from this CE program.
Comments

I am interested in attending other MMPI presentations that address the following issues:

Receiving your Continuing Education Credits

Upon verification that you have met the requirements for obtaining APA CE credit, Pearson will send your APA certificate to the email address on record through our webinar registration system. Requirements include 1) verification, through Pearson's electronic attendance records, that the entire session was attended and 2) your completed evaluation form has been received by Pearson within 7 business days of the webinar session. Credit for partial session attendance is not available. Please allow 10 business days for delivery of your APA CE Certificate.

Save your completed evaluation form and send it as an attachment to: darlene.k.davis@pearson.com